

Economic & Political WEEKLY

ISSN (Online) - 2349-8846

Our primary objective is to provide a platform for the exchange of ideas and information on economic and political issues. The journal is open to contributions from scholars, practitioners, and students of all backgrounds. The content should be original, scholarly, and relevant to the current state of economic and political thought. Contributions should be sent to the Editor, who will review them and make recommendations. The journal is published quarterly and is available online. For more information, please visit our website.
